Nazi Panzers Resist Allied Advance

FURIOUS BATTLES IN TILLY-CAEN AREA

Americans Hold Carentan, But Concede Ground South Of Town To Germans

S.H.A.E.F., June 14.

Strong German counter-attacks are taking place in key sectors of the Normandy front, it is learned at S.H.A.E.F. this morning.

Armoured battles of increasing intensity are raging in the Tilly-Caen area. Four German panzer divisions are putting in repeated and furious counter-attacks to stem the Allied advance and hurl the Allies back.

In some sectors Allied troops continue to press on, but on others the Germans have had local successes.

FLUCTUATING FIGHTING

Fluctuating fighting is going on in and around the town of Troan and the left flank where big guns of the British battleships, "Nelson" and "Ramillies", are giving strong support.

Carentan is firmly in American hands, but the ground south of the town has been conceded in face of German counter-attacks.

FROM RETREAT TO ATTACK

Reuter's Special Correspondent with the United States forces in Normandy cabled on Tuesday night:—

The Germans today suddenly halted their five-day and night retreat near the pivot town of Carentan and struck with tanks in the first strong counter-attack against American troops. Blasting at the centre of the American line in an effort to split the onrushing wave of Allied troops the Germans hurled into battle some of their crack units including S.S. troops and parachute outfits.

The German attack, which centred round Carenten, was made as the remainder of the American line continued to flow forward against relatively mild resistance. The Axis counter-assault which has been going on all day behind a hail of machine-gun and artillery fire, is being made with some of the most highly boosted divisions the Germans have.

Carentan is now firmly in American hands and has been since early yesterday morning. American officers have expressed doubt whether the Germans would ever succeed in hurling out the United States troops now holding the village.

The Germans are on the defensive from the Aure river to the Vire river which is in the eastern section of the good fat bridgehead which the Americans have established. The Germans, meanwhile, continued to drop back under the sharp probing from United States spearheads. Though the official count of prisoners is still "about 1,800", it is believed that the actual figure will turn out to be much higher.

Frontline units in most sectors are continuing to seize prisoners in groups of three or four. The Allies, it is, meanwhile, revealed, in their reinforcements of troops are ahead of the Germans.

It was disclosed at SHAEF that the combined Allied air force flew over 56,000 sorties and dropped more than 42,000 tons of bombs in direct support of General Sir Bernard Montgomery's armies in the first seven days of the campaign. The Allies destroyed in the same period 896 German aircraft in the air. The Allied losses were 554 planes—the loss representing less than one per cent of the sorties flown.

ROMMEL STRIKES BACK

Reuter's special correspondent at S.H.A.E.F. says:—

Rommel has swung in powerful counterblows in an effort to loosen the threat of the pincer movement to cut off Caen from the south. Very strong armoured formations are in action in the area from Tilly Sur Seulles to Caen, but further to the south-east Allied troops who took Balleroy have punched forward another five miles to take Caumont five miles south of Balleroy.

Caumont is south-east of the Cerisy forest and about 20 miles inland from the nearest point on the beaches.

Caumont is a road junction which controls the highway running up to the north-west to Saint Lo and the presence of Allied troops there present on outflanking threat to Saint Lo itself.

CONFUSED FIGHTING.

Troarn which was taken by Allied troops in their drive for the bridgehead on the east flank is the centre of confused fighting. It is not now certain whether the British engaged there still hold the town or not.

It is known that Allied forward forces are there, but very strong German reaction has been met and until this has been dealt with the position is likely to remain very much as it is.

The main German effort at the moment appears to be around Balleroy and Tilly apparently in an endeavour to hamper General Montgomery's right punch around Tilly to the south-east towards Caen. The German flank has already been found by Allied armour west of Tilly Sur Seulles.

Although the capture of Montebourg in the Cherbourg peninsula was reported by frontline correspondent yesterday, the Germans counter-attacked and fighting is still going on in the town.

LOOK AT THE FRONT.

This is how the front now looks, says Reuter's Special Correspondent:—

WEST: Fighting is still going on in Montebourg in the Cherbourg peninsula. Carentan is still in American hands, but the Germans have counter-attacked strongly to meet the American drive to the south. There is little change between Carentan and Lison.

CENTRE: Allied forces have exploited their success at Balleroy to sweep forward to Caumont, six miles south-southeast of Balleroy. There are indications that Vilers Bocage south-southwest of Tilly is now in Allied hands.

EAST: Strong armoured clashes are being fought out and Allied formations are now well forward on the east side of Tilly Sur Seulles.

Air support is still being given on a big scale in the battle areas. German resistance is sporadic. As the weather improved, so the bringing into play of Allied superiority means that "the eyes" of the Allies improve in vision while the Germans are blinded as they are unable to counter Allied strength to any great extent.

CAUMONT REACHED.

This morning's S.H.A.E.F. "communique" number seventeen said: "West of Tilly Sur Seulles our armour found the enemy's flank and struck south with great effect.

Advance patrols of our forces have now reached Caumont despite vigorous reaction on the part of the enemy. In the sector between Tilly Sur Seulles and Caen armoured clashes continued to take place. There is strong enemy pressure in the Carentan area.

RECORD AIR SWEEP

From Reuter's Special Correspondent at Shaef (Wednesday): All records in heavy bombers attacks were broken today when the United States' Eighth Air Force sent out over 1,500 Fortresses and Liberators to smash at targets in France, Belgium and Germany. It was the largest bomber fleet ever launched from Britain and topped by over 100 the previous "biggest ever" force sent out a few days ago.—Reuter.

A German Denial

LONDON, June 14: General Montgomery's statement to newspaper correspondents that women snipers have been in action on the German side has brought a denial from the German High Command. The German Overseas News Agency to-day quoted a German High Command spokesman saying: "There are no women snipers at German strongpoints on the Atlantic Wall. It may be that some women employed as auxiliary signallers were seen at these points".—Reuter.

London Spot and forward Silver quotations were unchanged at 23-1/2d and New York Spot Silver was quoted at 44-3/4 cents. The local bullion market was officially closed today.

COTTON:—The local cotton market opened today at Rs. 407/8 for July delivery and improved to Rs. 409 in moderate covering. The market has lost all confidence in the ability of the market to sustain and except short covering there is no demand. A section believes that in the absence of sufficient demand prices will sink to official minimum level.

The state of panic in the market has aroused considerable interest. The Government has declared their policy of buying cotton at Rs. 400 and it is believed that the Government would carry out the pledge. Thus those who are responsible for the drop may be asked to declare that open business. Anyway the market is in an anxious mood. July advanced to Rs. 411/12 and declined to Rs. 407/12 and steadied at Rs. 408/12 September advanced to Rs. 420 and declined to Rs. 416/8. The market closed at 6 p.m. as under:—

FAREWELL "DARSHAN" AT JUHU

Mahatma Motors Down To Beach From Shack In Response To Clamour From Crowds

JAYAKAR AND SARKAR SEE GANDHIJI

BOMBAY, Wednesday.

On the eve of his departure, at the prayer-time to-day, Gandhiji addressed for a minute a vast crowd of people at Juhu beach.

Due to the inclement weather, no public prayer was held. The crowd, however, waited and clamoured, under cover of thousands of umbrellas, for Gandhiji's darshan.

Their desire was fulfilled and Gandhiji drove in a car from his shack and addressed the crowd. Gandhiji observed that it had been his earnest desire to have prayers with them before he left for Poona. But he could not do so. God willed it otherwise. The circumstances were such that he could not but come in a car. He requested them to go away quietly, and once he saw them going, he would also leave the place. After waving his arm, and seeing the crowd moving, Gandhiji motored back to his shack.

Dr. M. R. Jayakar, Mr. N. R. Sarker, Mr. G. D. Birla, Mr. Yusuf Meherally, Mr. Bhulabhai Desai and Mr. Sarker declined to say anything when approached by the Press.

The editor of 'Be-Ghady-Mauj,' Ghazal-Samrat Shaiyda, recited some Gujarati poems to Gandhiji, who was pleased and wrote back on a piece of paper that the poems were sweet.

Gandhiji will leave for Poona tomorrow. A fleet of cars will leave 'Gandhi Gram' early in the morning, and Gandhiji and his party will catch the train at a level-crossing.

FOOD AGITATORS WARNED

CALCUTTA, June 14.

"Abetting or instigation of strikes over rationing will be treated as attacks on a settled Government policy and will be dealt with as attempts to undermine public confidence in the food administration of the province," say the Government of Bengal in a Press Note issued today.

Government state that it has come to their notice that there is an agitation in some quarters on the inadequacy of rations, specially rice and atta, supplied to industrial workers under the rationing scheme now in force in the Calcutta industrial area.

Clarifying the position they say that the present ration of four seers of rice and atta has been fixed after taking into full consideration the relevant factors such as the availability of the supplies and the nutritive needs of adult worker.

Special arrangements have now been made under which the employers supplement these rations by supplying an extra seer of any of the unrationed articles, e.g., jowar, Bajra and gram and a seer of dal. These articles are supplied at concessional rates. Canteens for supply of cooked food have also been opened in a large number of industrial undertakings.

Government emphasise that the welfare of industrial workers is constantly receiving the attention of Government. They trust that in view of the position now explained, all agitation on the inadequacy of rations supplied will forthwith cease.—A. P.

CHURCHILL PLEADS FOR POSTPONEMENT

LONDON, June 14.

Mr. Churchill, answering a number of questions on Britain's relations with the French Committee of Liberation and General de Gaulle, deprecated in the House of Commons to-day discussion of this subject at the present time.

"I must advise the House most seriously that a debate in this matter would have very great dangers. One tale is good till another is told. His Majesty's Government has taken very great trouble over their conduct of business and, on the whole, it may be said that it has been conducted with success.

When you look at the advance in Italy and the extraordinary achievements of the Cross Channel landings in France, a fair-minded man would consider the administration had the right to the confidence of the House when they say they don't want a particular subject discussed. That is my view. This is not because we are not prepared to discuss it in all detail and, if need be, in all severity, but the result if such a discussion might well be to emphasise any differences which may exist with the French Committee of Liberation headed by General de Gaulle, and I should be sorry to see these issues prematurely forced to a decision. Therefore, I ask for leniency and forbearance.

But if there is a general desire on the part of a large number of members to bring these matters to a head, then the rights of the House must fairly be met and a suitable occasion for a debate will be found. I should advise strongly against this now. In addition to our relations with the French Committee of National Liberation headed by General de Gaulle we have also to consider our very close relations with the United States and their relations with the body I have just mentioned.

I think it would be better to allow the relationships prevailing between General de Gaulle and the United States to proceed further before we have a formidable debate on this question which might well be of great comfort to the enemy. I therefore, appeal to the House not to disregard my counsel.

SEARCH FOR BETTER SOLUTION

Mr. Churchill was questioned by members of all parties.

Mr. Boothby (Conservative) asked him about President Roosevelt's statement yesterday on the France and the report that the French Committee has appointed a Regional Commissioner for Rouen District without consulting the Allies.

Mr. Harris (Liberal) wanted an undertaking that the matter would not be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Churchill replied: "We are getting into the very thing I asked the House to avoid, namely, a debate. I have no reason to fear a debate on this subject except that I think it would be necessary to put a case which might cause widespread pain."

Mr. Churchill assured Mr. Shinwell (Labour) that "in this last week of great success I should think a larger proportion of our time was given to a discussion of General de Gaulle and his affairs and Committee than to any other subject. I can assure you it is not that these matters are not engaging the attention of Government. They do very much indeed. But I am reluctant to bring them to a head at the present time. I hope for a better solution than would probably be achieved if there had been quite a definite thrashing of the matter out in the Commons.

NO FULL CONFIDENCE.

Mr. Churchill said he had not had a chance of reading President Roosevelt's statement about the France which was rather a technical one. "It seems to me quite clear that if notes are given to the French population in return for livestock and other services, the responsibility for meeting them in the first instance at any rate lies with the Government issuing them."

Mr. Aneurin Bevan (Labour) objected to Britain's credit being committed to any currency whatsoever without the Commons being first consulted. He criticised Government's political handling of this question. "Although we are all delighted with the military successes on the continent, the British Government does not in fact receive the full confidence of all people in the political handling of the war." (Cries of protest).

NO BREACH.

Mr. Churchill said he was quite certain there had been no breach of the financial regulations, rules and practices of the House regarding the issue of chits or notes in a foreign country. "As for the general question whether there was entire agreement throughout the country and in the House on all the different foreign policies affecting all the various countries and on the way in which they have been handled, I can assure you I never aimed at such a high ideal and when I think of some of the persons who would have to be converted I am glad I never set my hand to that aim". (Loud laughter).

NOT QUITE FAIR.

Mr. Martin (Labour) said it was not quite fair for the Prime Minister to appeal to members to maintain indefinite silence on any matter which involved such a profound principle, whatever one thought of the conduct of the war by Government.

Mr. Churchill declared he never said there would be indefinite postponement.

He was certain a debate would do more harm than good (cheers). It might lead to things being said which were afterwards found to have very serious repercussions for if attacks were made then answers would be given whenever required. Mr. Churchill disagreed with Mr. Boothby that there was a great and widespread anxiety in the House and the country.

"If I had no hopes of a better solution than I could announce at the present time, I would not ask for delay," said Mr. Churchill.

Mr. Granville (Independent) asked: "Will you give an assurance that there is nothing to prevent General de Gaulle from landing on the coast of France if he so wishes."

Mr. Churchill replied: "The last question is one which, I hope, may be found capable of solution."

Earl Winterton (Conservative) said there were some who were motivated by the most painful and searching anxiety about the position of General de Gaulle. He said they wanted to be sure this trouble which might jeopardise the peace of Europe after the war was going to be resolved.

Mr. Churchill replied: "As to the question of peace in Europe after the war, we have a long way to go before we can be quite sure what will jeopardise peace. We have also to go some way to stop peace being jeopardised."

AMERICANS CAPTURE LATERA TOWN

Allied Advance Continues North And West Of Italian Capital

Allied H. Q., Italy, June 14.

Reuter's special correspondent at Advanced Allied Headquarters in Italy cables:

American troops have taken the town of Latera on the eastern shore of Lake Bolsena and are now continuing towards another small town called Gradioli, a further two miles northeast.

The Germans have been fighting hard all along Highway 74 line and the coastal point where this lateral highway from Lake Bolsena joins route one along the coast was captured late on Monday only after concentrated pressure. Patrols are now probing further to the north on route one.

East of Lake Bolsena the Allies are closing in on the towns of Bolsena and Bagnoregio, on roads leading to Orvieto. As the Allies continue the drive up Italy, German resistance varies in intensity.

The Fifth Army on the west coast is moving forward through mountains to win control of the important lateral Highway 74 stretching between the coast and Lake Bolsena, nearly 70 miles above Rome.

Meanwhile the advance of the Eighth Army further inland has reached nearly sixty miles beyond Rome west of the Tiber with South Africans in the vanguard.—Reuter.

SOVIET ATTACK ON "KARELIAN WALL"

Drive In Isthmus Being Speeded Up

MOSCOW, June 14.

Reuter's Special Correspondent cables:—

The Russian drive in the Karelian Isthmus is being speeded up on the flanks. The "Red Star" said that Soviet forces are "now fighting mainly to widen the line of the breakthrough." Soviet mortar and artillery units keeping pace with infantry are opening massed fire on the opposing forces, it said.

Charred stumps or trunks splintered like matchwood are all that is left of pine trees as the Russians press forwards in forest battles through the Finnish defences behind the Karelian wall. General Govorov's men have made the first crack in the Vinrong Highway Sector of the Finnish second line of defence.

"The Karelian Wall" is now revealed as a series of exceptionally strong positions with granite and concrete pill-boxes, anti-tank ditches and numerous steel-hooded machine-gun nests similar to those used by Germans.—Reuter.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON PALEL EXPECTED

KANDY, June 14.

A.P.I. War Correspondent wires:—

Another Japanese attack against Palel on the south-eastern fringe of Imphal plain may come soon. It would be the likeliest object of unusual activity—probably aimed at reinforcement—on the road from Palel to Tamu. Their forces there are not so strong as those in Bishenpur area south of Imphal. The tenacity of the Japanese even in retreat was shown north of Kanglatongbi on the Imphal-Kohima Road. Withdrawn from the road block at milestone 116, they are making a stand at milestone 112, but the Allies are already at milestone 113.—A. P.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

When you have convinced thinking men that it is right, and humane men that it is just, you will gain your cause. Men always lose half of what is gained by violence. What is gained by argument, is gained forever.
—Wendell Phillips.

The Bombay Chronicle

RELEASE CONGRESS LEADERS

It is now six weeks since Gandhiji was released and about five since he came to Juhu. But his progress in recovery, though appreciable, is not satisfactory, and that is at least one reason why he is going back to Poona. But the fact that he has been able to give interviews to a number of leaders of different political parties shows that he is well enough to stand brief interviews and that he is anxiously studying the situation. That he will continue his study at Poona is obvious but beyond that nothing is known definitely about his next political moves. It may be presumed that his first move will be to repudiate the charges urged against him by the Government of India.

As regards further action, Gandhiji has himself mentioned the difficulty in his way, that he has no authority to withdraw the Congress resolution even if he should be convinced about its unsuitability in the present circumstances. Nor has he been helped in this matter by those authorities who have banned the meeting of those Congressmen who are anxious to review the whole situation. These men have therefore, been content with expressing their full confidence in Gandhiji's lead. That does not much help him in speaking on behalf of the Congress. We can easily surmise what non-Congress leaders have suggested to him. But his study will not be complete unless he gets into touch with the Working Committee Members, on the one hand, and with the Viceroy, on the other. If the Viceroy grants the interview, nothing will be lost, not even prestige—for, after all, Gandhiji is now a free man—and conceivably there may be appreciable gain. As Pandit Kunzru remarks, the mistake made by Lord Linlithgow who gave Gandhiji no opportunity of meeting him, should not be repeated. If for any reason the interview is not to be granted the Viceroy should at least put Gandhiji in contact with the Congress leaders, though this contact should be only the first step to their release if an all-round settlement is really desired by Government.

Many non-Congress leaders have urged Government to release the Working Committee Members as the most promising step in the solution of the deadlock as otherwise it is not possible for the Congress to reconsider its August resolution. In his presidential address on the 39th anniversary of the Servants of India Society Pandit Kunzru said that "in view of the change which had taken place in the internal situation during the last two years, Government should release all Congressmen who had not been guilty of violence and make it possible for them to meet and revise their policy." When there is widespread and insistent demand for the release of the leaders it behoves a responsible person like the Viceroy at least to explain his policy in this matter.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

Stalin's Tribute

In a sense the event of this week is Marshal Stalin's tribute to his Allies. The man who had been critical of Anglo-American inaction has been promptly generous and wholehearted in praise when they did move. The language and sentiments are so eulogistic that they must almost embarrass Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill. But the Americans and the British are undoubtedly entitled to Marshal Stalin's certificate. Another interesting statement comes from President Roosevelt. At his latest press conference the President said this: "Our operations, vast and important as they are, are only part of a far larger pattern of combined assault against the fortress of Germany by the Russian armies from the east and our forces from the Mediterranean". The Russians have already launched their assault. When will General Maitland-Wilson move in the Mediterranean?

A Belgian Announcement

The Germans have removed King Leopold of Belgium to Germany. This action of theirs does not come as a surprise to us. From the German point of view it constitutes an essential measure of security. It only emphasizes the fear entertained by the Nazis that the Allies are going to extend their invasion operations. It is a compliment to the invaders It was, of course, the duty of M. Pierlot, the Belgian Prime Minister, to announce the German move to his country and his people. But he took the opportunity to stress two other points as well: first "the resolution of Belgium" to restore the constitutional edifice with monarchy at the summit and, second, the continued excercise of authority by the Government in exile "the judicial" title of which is not contested by any one either in Belgium or abroad. Is there any trouble about, or opposition to, the restoration of King Leopold? And, more interesting still, why this pointed insistence on the authority of the emigre Government? Does it by any chance fear a treatment similar to the one against which General de Gaulle is complaining?

De Gaulle And Allies

Despite stubborn German resistance and a few local and temporary successes here and there, Allied progress in Normandy continues satisfactorily. But as the Allies advance on land and the area of liberated French territory is extended so does the political problem relating to the French National Committee and General de Gaulle call more urgently for solution. Who will administer—temporarily liberated France? We have seen from General de Gaulle's protest that the Allied High Command has plans which do not accord with the views and claims of the French Committee of National Liberation. But the Governments of Czecho-Slovakia, Belgium and Luxemburg have already recognised it as the provisional Government of the French Republic, and the Polish and Dutch Governments have also decided upon a similar recognition. Moreover, unless we are mistaken, Mr. Cordell Hull himself had, in April last, said something suggestive of such recognition when the time came. The time has come. Why then the hesitation in conceding to the National Committee the status and responsibilities to which it is entitled? And why, if reports are correct, the reluctance on the part of the Allies to let General de Gaulle go to France? Is the unfortunate history of Algiers to be repeated in metropolitan France? If so, on whose behalf and for what purpose? Though Mr. Churchill in reply to a question in the Commons said that the question of permitting General de Gaulle to proceed to France was one which might be found capable of solution, his plea for postponement of the debate on Britain's relation with the French Committee of Liberation and General de Gaulle is mystifying.

What Might Have Been

The public has quite naturally welcomed the publication of the letter from Dr. Mahmud, ex-Congress Minister in Bihar, to his son. That letter explains clearly the Congress attitude towards the Japanese invasion. In ringing, unequivocal terms it says: "A real enthusiasm should be created in the country against it (the invasion) and the morale of the country should be kept up. No anger or bitterness against the Government should be allowed to come in the way in this matter." The Congress position could not be otherwise. If its enemies speak otherwise it is because they want to discredit it to serve their own ends. The pity of it is that the "real enthusiasm" that Dr. Mahmud longs for is not yet as conspicuous as it should have been. It would have been, if one like Pandit Jawaharlal were our Defence Minister. He is a far more earnest anti-Fascist than men like Mr. Churchill or Mr Amery.

"SERIOUS OMISSION IN RELIEF SCHEME"

Plea For Compensation For Losses Not Covered By Marine Insurance Policies

The Committee of the Indian Merchants' Chamber have sent the following telegram to the Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy:...

"Please place the following telegram before His Excellency the Viceroy Committee, Indian Merchants' Chamber sent a telegram on 2nd June to His Excellency pointing out essential factors which were omitted from the scheme of compensation regarding explosion losses announced in Government commun que issued on 30th May and urging necessary modifications in the same in the light thereof without which some could not be considered either in consonance with the responsibility of the State or even just and equitable to meet the serious situation created by the disaster Committee are anxiously awaiting Government announcement authorising sanction of such modifications.

MODIFICATIONS, IMPERATIVE

Meanwhile, Committee wish in particular to draw His Excellency's special attention to the following important directions in which modifications are imperative if scheme is not to involve any serious injustice to those affected. In the first place there should be no distinction between uninsured immoveable property and uninsured moveable property such as stock in trade, merchandise, cargoes in transit, sheds, dock or on ships. The same basis of compensation should be adopted for both the above types of losses whether of moveable or immoveable property. It inspite of Committee's representations compensation for uninsured immoveable property is not fixed at cent per cent but is finally fixed at 75 per cent compensation for stock in trade, merchandise and cargoes in transit sheds, docks and on ships should also be not less than 75 per cent without any limitation as to maximum amount payable.

MUST BE RECTIFIED

Committee find that there is no provision in the scheme for compensation for losses not covered by Marine Insurance policies just as there is provision for payment of losses not covered by Fire Insurance policies. This omission it is essential should be rectified and losses not covered by Marine Insurance policies should be paid on the same basis as losses not covered by Fire Insurance policies as referred to above.

Committee consider modifications on the above lines are absolutely essential if Government scheme is not to involve serious injustice to a large number of affected people and Committee therefore earnestly urge that His Excellency will be pleased to give his very best and sympathetic consideration to this serious omission in the scheme which Committee regard as of vital importance."

TURKEY'S ACTION AGAINST GERMAN SHIPPING AT BOSPHORUS ENTRANCE

Eden On President's Assurance "To Have Whole Matter Re-examined"

LONDON, June 14.

Mr. Eden, the Foreign Secretary, in a statement in the Commons today on the passage of German vessels through the Dardanelles, said: In recent months, the German authorities have started to move shipping from the Black Sea where, after their defeats, they no longer require it, through the Straits into the Aegean Sea, where, in consequence of the efforts of the Royal Navy and the R.A.F. the German shipping position has greatly deteriorated A few of these German ships are merchantmen, other vessels fall into different categories.

To obtain passage for them through the Straits, the Germans dismantle their armament which is installed again when they reach their destination in the Aegean and pass them through as commercial vessels. Both classes of vessels must be regarded as either men of war or auxiliary vessels of war, passage of which by a belligerent through the Straits during time of war is prohibited by Article 19 of the Montreux Convention.

ABUSE OF CONVENTION.

The duty of the Turkish Government to stop these vessels is more evident when I remind you that they have already once detected the Germans in similar abuse of the convention. German landingcraft disguised as commercial barges were passed at one time through the Straits by the German navy. Then the Germans made the blunder of giving publicity to the military use of barges and that particular fraud was brought to an end by the Turkish Government".

Mr. Eden was understood to say that four K. T. vessels and eight E. M. S. craft during the first days of June passed through the Straits into the Aegean.

COMMERCIAL VESSELS.

Mr. Eden continued "in spite of all representations made by His Majesty's Ambassador at Ankara, not merely against their passage but the inadequate and hurried inspection to which they were subjected by the Turkish authorities, the Turkish Government have persisted in their claim that they can find no evidence on examination that they are other than commercial vessels.

In view of this unsatisfactory attitude, and seeing that there are further ships of these types which the Germans will wish to pass through the Black Sea into the Aegean, His Majesty's Ambassador has, on instructions, represented to the President of the Turkish Republic that His Majesty's Government are profoundly disturbed by the fact that the Turkish Government should have lent themselves to this palpable manoeuvre of the German Government which hoped thereby to increase the German naval strength in the Aegean to the direct detriment of British interests.

The President has now promised to have the whole matter re-examined by his Government. I would add that a further K. T. vessel which arrived in the entrance of the Bosphorus on June 5 has been detained in the Straits by the Turkish authorities."

When Mr. Ivor Thomas (Labour) asked if the Soviet Union had joined in a similar protest to Ankara, Mr. Eden declared: "we are in close touch with our Allies on this subject. I would like to have notice as to whether this particular representation has been joined in by them".—Reuter.

Uproar In Bengal Assembly: Sequel To Chair's Refusal To Adjourn House

CALCUTTA, June 14.

Tumultuous scenes marked the closing stage of tonight's proceedings in the Bengal Legislative Assembly when Mr H. S. Suhrawardy, Minister for Civil Supplies, was making his observations on behalf of the Government on the Opposition contention that the Speaker of the House was not justified in accepting closure on the motions for consideration of the Secondary Education Bill on May 25 last.

Mr. Suhrawardy had spoken for nearly an hour when the clock struck seven (the usual time for the House to rise) and the Opposition urged that the House should adjourn for the day and Mr. Suhrawardy might finish his speech tomorrow.

The Speaker (Syed Nausher Ali) said that he was anxious that the discussion on the closure matter should conclude tonight and added that it was the inherent right of the Speaker to adjourn the House or not. He then asked Mr. Suhrawardy to proceed with his speech.

The Opposition persisted in their demand that the House should adjourn immediately and started thumping their desks and stamping their feet which made it impossible for Mr. Suhrawardy to resume his speech.

After warning several Opposition Members that their conduct was disorderly, the Speaker named four Opposition Members one after another of the official and unofficial Congress Parties, including Mr. Kiran Sankar Roy, Leader of the official Congress Party. All these members declined to withdraw from the Chamber, one of them remarking that "let the House go to hell."

Further exchanges occurred between the Chair and the Opposition in the midst of which the Chair adjourned the House for half an hour.

On the House reassembling, Dr. Nalinaksha Sanyal, Chief Whip of the official Congress Party, asked the Speaker to withdraw his naming orders remarking that he had raised a tempest in a tea pot.

The Speaker, after emphasising that the members concerned were guilty of gross disorderly conduct and that the leader of the official Congress party had used most unworthy language in respect to the Chair, asked Dr. Sanyal to resume his seat. Dr. Sanyal persisting in addressing the Chair, the Speaker named him and asked him to withdraw from the Chamber, which he declined to do.

The Chair appealed to Mr. Fazlul Huq, Leader of the Opposition, to help in restoring order, remarking that the Chair had often found that Mr. Huq could not control his men.

Mr. Huq retorted that he had found that the Speaker was unable to control the House. He appealed to the Speaker to withdraw the naming orders and to adjourn the House till to-morrow when Mr. Suhrawardy might finish his speech.

The Speaker said that he had thought that Mr. Suhrawardy would not take more than ten minutes to finish his speech and called upon Mr. Suhrawardy to finish his observations.

On Mr. Suhrawardy rising again to speak, uproar again broke out from the Opposition benches in the midst of which the Speaker adjourned the House at 8-15 p.m. till tomorrow.

His Excellency Mr. R. G. Casey was in the Governor's box for about an hour and heard Mr. Suhrawardy's speech and was also present for a time when the tumultuous scenes broke out.—A. P.

Calcutta University Awards "Doctor Of Science" At Special Convocation

CALCUTTA, June 14: The Calcutta University today conferred the degree of Doctor of Science, Honoris Causa on Dr. B. C. Roy at a Special Convocation.

Speaking at the Convocation, His Excellency the Chancellor said that in conferring the degree, the University had done honour principally to itself. It was appropriate to Dr. Roy's special gifts that the University should have chosen the Degree of Doctor of Science for conferment on him "While emphasising his scientific attainments, we should not however, forget that the man whom we honour today is no narrow specialist looking only to his profession. However, honour be that profession may be," added His Excellency. "Dr. Roy's wide sympathies, administrative versatility and ideals of service have carried him—to the great advantage of the people of this land—far beyond such limits Still I would maintain that is pre-eminently a good scientist: that is to say, a man whose sympathies and fineness of temper transcend the boundaries of purely professional or academic study, and relate themselves to the needs of ordinary people. It is such men whom we need today, and we are proud of such a man's long intimate and fruitful connection with the University.

"Dr. Roy is the friend of us all—and I am confident that I am speaking in the voice of the University when I say that no special convocation called for the purpose of conferring a degree "honoris causa" has given greater satisfaction.—A. P.

High Court's Order Against Bengal Govt.

Echo Of Supersession Of Howrah Municipality

CALCUTTA, June 14: The order issued by the Government of Bengal under the Defence of India Rules superseding the Commissioners of the Howrah Municipality and appointing a Special Officer to exercise their power and duties was raised before the Calcutta High Court today.

On behalf of three of the superseded commissioners an application was made before Mr. Justice Edgley, praying for the issue of a "writ of quo warranto" and for an injunction restraining Moulvi H. H. Nomani, Deputy Magistrate from exercising the powers and duties of the Commissioners during the period of supersession. His Lordship issued a rule on the opposite party to show cause why a "writ of quo warranto" should not be issued. His Lordship issued an Interim injunction restraining Mr. Nomani from acting under the order issued by the Government of Bengal.

Later in the Bengal Legislative Assembly, the Leader of the Opposition, Mr A K Fazlul Huq made a statement. He referred to the proceedings in the Calcutta High Court and wanted to know from the Home Minister what arrangements had been made to carry on the business of the Municipality—Sir Nazimuddin, Chief Minister and Home Minister said that he did not propose to make any statement.—A P

RULE ISSUED AGAINST COLLECTOR

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Blagden)

Tulsiram Devidayal .....Petitioner

This was a petition under the Specific Relief Act for an Order against the Collector of Bombay directing him to issue a Certificate under the Rent Restriction Act to the effect that the petitioner required certain premises owned by him at Mazagon for his own use.

Part of the premises were let out to a tenant and in another part the petitioner had his own factory.

The petitioner alleged that his own business having increased considerably he required the portion occupied by the tenant for his own use. He applied to the Rent Controller for a certificate to that effect which was refused. On appeal the Collector stated that he had no reason to doubt that the petitioner's business had increased but "that it is not open to a landlord to expand his existing business beyond the space available to him and then to seek to throw out his well-stablished tenants."

Counsel for the petitioner argued that the Collector had no jurisdiction to refuse to issue a Certificate, once he accepted the fact that premises were required by the petitioner for his own use.

His Lordship ordered the issue of a Rule against the Collector to show cause against the petition.

Mr. H. D. Banaji instructed by Messrs Rancho das and Co., appeared for the petitioner.

Indian Companies' (Amendment) Act

NEW DELHI, June 14.

A "Gazette of India" notification has been issued fixing July 1, 1944, as the date on which the Indian Companies' (Amendment) Act, 1944 shall come into force, says a Press communique. The amending Act received the consent of the Governor-General on March 7, 1944.

The Amending Act includes a new Section 277HH prohibiting the employment of managing agents and placing restrictions on certain forms of employment. Under this Section no banking company whether incorporated in or outside British India shall, after the expiry of two years from the commencement of the Act, employ or be managed by a managing agent or any person whose remuneration or part of whose remuneration takes the form of a commission or share in the profits of the company, or by any person having a contract with the company for a period exceeding five years at any one time. It has, however, been provided that such a contract may be renewed or extended for a further period not exceeding five years at a time if and so often as the directors think fit.—A P.

TETE-A-TETE

WITHOUT COMMENT

"This is undoubtedly a brilliant success of our Allies.

One must admit that the history of wars does not know any such undertaking so broad in conception, so grandiose in its scale and so masterly in its execution."

—Comrade Marshal Stalin.

Sir R. K. Shanmukham Chetty, the knight of Ottawa and now one of the two non-official Indian delegates to the world Monetary Conference, has given the assurance that "India's case will be presented with unanimity and pressed with the utmost vigour" at the conference.

The trouble with such assurances is that nobody can be sure as to which "India" the "representatives" represent and, therefore, what "case" they will press with unanimity and vigour.

* * *

Asked in the Commons, apropos of the Indo-British debt problem, to give an assurance that there would be no attempt to prejudice the Indian position by any attempt at manipulation of balances, Sir John Anderson replied, "I do not think I can profitably deal with these matters by question and answer."

Quite so. These matters can be profitably dealt with strictly without question and answer.

Mr. G. D. Birla feels shocked by the recent suggestion made in Britain which, he (Mr. Birla) says "amounts to pure and simple repudiation of England's debt to India".

Mr. Birla has apparently become over-emotional. He does not see the pure and simple fact that India owes so much to England that there can never be England's debt to India and, therefore no question of its repudiation can ever arise at all.

* * *

But that is not the only instance of Mr. Birla's failing. He imagines things that simply don't exist. India, he tells Britain: "India knows too well where the shoe pinches."

The fact is that India has no shoe to wear. How can it pinch then?

Addressing a meeting of the Servants of India Society, Pundit Hridaya Nath Kunzru felt, says a report, that they had not been told the full truth about the Japanese invasion of India.

Why should Indians have been told and unnecessarily worried about something which is no affair of theirs? After all it is no part of their responsibility, thanks to the full realisation by His Majesty's Government of its obligations.

* * *

One of the conclusions that Comrade Jamnadas M. Mehta has brought from his visit to the U.S.A. is that inspite of American sympathies India will have to stand on her own legs to attain freedom.

Will the good Comrade, therefore, now give up sniping at India's legs?

Dewan Bahadur Jhaveri said the days were not far distant when peace would have it unbroken reign on the earth and India would take her rightful place among the nations of the world. He further said that India through her spiritual heritage had a special contribution to make for the shaping of the post-war world Our enlightened self-interest from the national point of view as well as our love for the principles involved in the struggle against Fascist powers demanded that we should support the United Nations and help them to bring the war to a speedy and successful conclusion.

Sir Rustom Masani speaking sounded a warning that even the most elaborate plans for reconstruction would not help the world unless there was a reorientation of the ideals of human life and conduct and readjustment of international relationship. All the activities of the Front and all hopes of emergence of a better era were based on their faith in the sense of justice of the statesmen of the United Nations. If that faith were shaken, everything would be lost.

The Half-Column "By Dim"

According to an announcement from All-India Radio, Bombay, Mr. Vellodi, the Textile Commissioner, has postponed his "talk" from June 17th to June 24th. From which we conclude that Mr. Vellodi hopes to pay a surprise visit to some more mills during the next week and he would like his talks to be upto date. Be careful, boys! The K.C.I.E. for Hydari and the C.I.E. for Vellodi may spur these Civil Servants to greater and grander action.

Mr. B. F. Bharucha sees Mr. Jinnah seated on the horns of a dilemma. One of these days something may enter his soul.

Now that Mr. M.R.A. Baig has been appointed leader of the Central National War Front, he virtually becomes the boss of the local and provincial leader, Sir R.P. Masani. The situation is a little delicate, and, if I may say so, for a man of the age, the title and ex-Chancellorship of Sir Rustom, a trifling embarrassing. I suggest Mr. Baig be made a baronet immediately, to make Sir R. P. Masani feel better.
